Marilyn Sheppard. Gardner representing the Court of Last Resort has been investigating the case for some time.

SHEPPARD 'CONFESSOR' GIVES SECRET DETAILS

Innocence Of Doctor Still Doubted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—A convict who claims he killed Marilyn Sheppard disclosed details of the murder that were never made public, it was reported today.

Statements made by Donald Joseph Wedler, 23, to a lie detector expert, were given to Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, counsel for Dr. Samuel Sheppard, Cleveland osteopath serving a life term for his wife's murder.

Herbert did not give newsmen the unpublished details of the Sheppard murder that Wedler mentioned while being questioned by Alex Gregory, the lie detector expert, in Deland, Fla.

Lie Test For Sheppard Sheppard himself will undergo a lie detector examination by Gregory, it was announced after Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill authorized the test on the basis of the "confession" made by Wedler.

In giving Gregory permission to question Sheppard with lie-detecting equipment, O'Neill overruled a ban on such tests on the osteopath that went into effect after Sheppard's conviction on first-degree murder charges.

Sheppard had refused to undergo a lie-detector test during the investigation of the July 4, 1954 murder of Marilyn Sheppard on the ground that it would not be "impartial." But Sheppard maintained his innocence throughout the trial and subsequent appeals to higher courts.

Wedler told newsmen in Deland Friday night that he entered a Cleveland home on the night Marilyn was killed, beat a woman with a steel pipe as she slept and then struck someone who rushed upstairs.

Sheppard maintained throughout the trial that he was lying or couch on the night of the murder and rushed upstairs when he heard a noise only to be knocked out.

JP Schultz Finds Lively Runaway

A bright-eyed, 10-year-old-girl missing from her Philadelphia home since Wednesday night was picked up yesterday in Cornwells Heights, slightly hungry but up on the Phillies baseball game scores and other events which happened after she left home.

The girl, who lives at Byberry and Knight's Road, was found by Justice of the Peace Albert Schultz after she was recognized by Miss Jeanie Stewart, 2238 Railroad Ave., Cornwells Heights.

She left home after her mother scolded her for bringing in a stray cat. Andrea was told to take the cat back where she found it. When she was found at 4:30 p.m. yesterday, the cat was no longer with her.

She told police she "let the cat go after a while."

Squire Schultz, the first to approach the girl after she was spotted on Railroad Ave., said she told him her name was Alice Hoffengruber, and she lived "down the street" on Railroad.

Billy Graham Talks To 85,000 Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) Billy Graham will preach tonight before an anticipated Yankee Stadium audience of 85,000 persons gathered for a mammoth rally that will be a climax, but not a finish, to his crusade to save New York.

The rally, at which Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be a special guest, was to have been the last meeting in Graham's 10-week crusade, but Friday the revival was extended to Aug. 10.

Graham said Friday night before delivering his 60th Madison Square Garden sermon that the crusade might continue "until we're thrown out of town."

"This is God's doing," he said. "We must give him the credit."

Although the home of the New York Yankees baseball team seats only 67,000, there is room for many thousands of standees in the stands and on the outfield grass, a Graham spokesman said. More than 85,000 persons are expected to attend the rally.

Graham hopes tonight's rally, which will be held even if it rains, will be one of the largest gatherings in the history of the Christian church.

His previous high attendance was recorded in Wembley Stadium in London, when 120,000 persons came to hear him speak. His largest attendance in the United States was 75,000 at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas in 1953.

The rally will be telecast coast-to-coast over 50 stations (ABC-TV, 8-9 p.m. e.d.t.) but will not be seen on television in New York.

Meg's Lord Denies Rumor

LONDON (UP) — Handsome Lord Patrick Beresford returns to Dublin today, quieting for the moment rumors of his imminent engagement to Princess Margaret.

The 24-year-old lord flew here for a 24-hour visit yesterday and told newsmen at the airport, "There is absolutely no truth to the story that I have come back here to announce my engagement to Princess Margaret."

The rumors which began at a garden party at Buckingham Palace Thursday finally got into print in London this morning, 36 hours later. British newspapers are traditionally careful about their coverage of the royal family and refused to print any word of the rumors that flooded London.

It wasn't until a Buckingham Palace press spokesman issued an official denial that the newspapers picked up the story.

New Senate Probe Faces Jimmy Hoffa

WASHINGTON (UP)— Newly-acquitted Teamster crown prince James R. Hoffa today faced possibly more trouble with the Senate Rackets Committee that accused him of bribery.

Committee members indicated Hoffa probably will be called to testify when the committee opens a rackets investigation in New York.

A federal jury cleared Hoffa Friday of charges that he bribed a Senate Rackets Committee investigator, John Cye Cheasty, to steal committee secrets during its

Dixie Demos Confident Of 'Rights' Win

WASHINGTON (UP)—Southern Democrats today felt confident they can knock the injunction provision from the civil rights bill.

The important provision — Part III—would empower the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions to block actual or threatened civil rights violations.

Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland abandoned efforts of getting a compromise on the provision. He announced his failure after a wide split over the injunction provision developed among civil rights bill backers.

The Senate planned to vote early next week on Part III. Southerners believed they could rally enough civil rights supporters to kill the section.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the southern opposition bloc, said he was glad the Senate "is going to have the opportunity to vote up or down on this Part III which is the most vicious part of the bill."

Loveliest Girl In World, 18, From Peru, Never Had Date

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP)—A stately, well-chaperoned, Peruvian socialite, Gladys Zender, 18, reigned today as the most beautiful girl in the world and the first Latin to win the annual Miss Universe pageant.

The graceful brunette wept unashamedly last night and had to borrow a handkerchief from the grinning master of ceremonies when last year's Miss Universe, Carol Morris, of Iowa, presented the successor with a red satin cape and glittering crown.

In addition to being the first contestant to win over 75 candidates, with her South American way, Gladys may also be the first victor of the world wide pageant not to accept the prize of a $10,000 tour.

Hot And Dry Weather Here

Hot, dry and fair weather was expected to prevail over Lower Bucks today.

Temperatures were expected to range in the low 90's.

Continued clear skies was expected tonight with temperatures ranging from the near 70's.

A ridge of warm and dry air which extends from off the New Jersey coast to the middle Great Lakes region has affected Pennsylvania weather for the past two days. The air mass was expected to remain over the state for the next 24 to 48 hours, bringing the hot and dry conditions.

Sunday is expected to be continued hot and more humid with scattered cloudiness in the afternoon hours, but no precipitation expected. Temperatures were expected to be generally near 90 for most of the state except higher elevations where it will be in the low and middle 80's.

Tots Playing With Matches Start Fire

Two Levittown youngsters, four and five years old, playing with fire yesterday afternoon which burned for almost an hour in the woods behind Dogwood Drive, Levittown.

Patrolmen Andy Zosh, Bristol Township Police, who investigated, said the fire started when the two youngsters dropped a match in the woods.

Firemen from Edgely Fire company hustled to the scene to wet down the heavily wooded area and prevent the flames from spreading.

Smoke poured from the woods for an hour before the firemen and young children in the area carrying water buckets, put it out.

Mrs. Jane Winby, 125 Dogwood Drive, reported the fire after seeing the smoke pouring into the sky.

Two youngsters, Billy Agar and Michael Gibbons, also helped drown out the fire.

Brooklyn Goes Sweet

NEW YORK (UP)—There's a new sign over the candy counter in a Brooklyn movie house:

"Live Longer — Reach for a Sweet—Instead of a Smoke. Effective August 1, Sale of All Cigarettes, Plain Or Filter Tip, Shall Be Discontinued At The Avenue U Theatre."

The theater's owner-manager, Albert L. Greene, said, "I guess you could call it a one-man crusade. I hope I didn't bite off more than I can chew."

Greene said he started after the U.S. Public Health Service issued its report on the relation between smoking and lung cancer last week. He stopped smoking himself. He asked his employees to give it up.

"My assistant stopped, the matron stopped, the operators stopped, the cashiers and the doormen — they all stopped," Greene said.

There's still a smoking section in the Avenue U Theater. "But I don't want to be a party to selling them," Greene said. "Maybe if some of the customers can't buy them here they'll give it up and maybe they'll be grateful."

Like the picture Greene's showing this week, it's a "Friendly Persuasion."

road Ave. She even spelled "Hoffgruber."

Insisting that was her name, she agreed to walk with Schultz when he suggested they go to her house. She said her father's name was "Jimmy."

While walking, they met a boy who told Schultz, by this time almost ready to believe the girl's name was "Hoffgruber," that he had never seen her before.

Elaboration
The girl, described as well-educated and bright, told Schultz she'd "just moved up from Philadelphia yesterday."

When they got to the last house on Railroad Ave., a neighbor told Schultz the child didn't live there. The neighbor thought she was the lost child described in the Courier-Times. She kicked when Schultz held her, but was finally cajoled into going to supper at the squire's home.

She said she had slept in the yard of Cornwells Elementary School since Wednesday, and she was pretty hungry. She said she had gotten some food from youngsters, including part of an apple and an orange.

Calls Parents
Schultz called the child's parents, who live just across the Bensalem Township line. The parents waited in Schultz's office while Andrea ate.

Schultz said that while he was talking to her and trying to get her to go home willingly (she finally agreed to go home providing she could come back and visit him) she told him about current baseball scores and other events.

When she finally saw her parents, he said she hung her head slightly and told them she was sorry.

Tennessee Hills Jury Faces Historic Date

Minor Courts Discussed By State Trooper

A discussion of law enforcement problems as they apply to the lower courts was presented Thursday night at the annual meeting of minor judiciary officials from Bucks, Lehigh and Northampton counties at Benetz Inn, Quakertown.

Trooper Irvin L. Good, of the Bethlehem State Police barracks, addressed the group on the topic, "By What Authority and How Shall the Minor Judiciary Be Judges?"

Trooper Good, who has served as bodyguard for General Eisenhower, former President Harry Truman, Chief Justice Earl Warren and other notables when they appeared in this area, told of some criticism of the lower courts that has cropped up lately.

Great Care Urged

He urged justices of the peace and other minor court officers to exercise great care and "sensitivity" in their handling of cases, and the following of strict legal procedures in administration of justice.

The affair was held this year under the auspices of the Bucks County Magistrates Association, which voted last night to present recreation equipment to the Bucks County House of Detention.

An invitation also was extended to the public to attend the group's yearly clambake on August 11, at the home of Ludwig Fetzer, Hartsville.

Sobs In Shame

Soldier Sentenced In Middletown Theft

An 18-year-old soldier who sobbed in shame as character witnesses testified for him yesterday will spend the next three months in prison for the theft of $6.

President Judge Edward G. Biester sentenced the youth, Richard Busse, of Philadelphia, to three months to a year after he pleaded guilty to breaking into a vending machine in Middletown on the night of July 12.

Busse, on leave from Ft. Knox, Ky., admitted taking $6.30 from Cities Service gasoline station, Route 413 and Newportville Road, after breaking into the machine with a crowbar.

Three Philadelphia juveniles who accompanied him are waiting a hearing in that city.

The foursome attempted to break into two other vending machines at Edgely on the same night, after a "spur of the moment impulse" started their larceny binge.

Get Phone Call

They were caught when police acted on a call that a suspicious car was parked at the Midway shopping center, across from the Cities Service station.

Busse told the judge that the four found the crowbar just before they decided to take a "look into Bristol to 'look for girls.'"

He had no answer for Judge Biester when he was asked how an "impulse" could carry over into three larceny attempts, the last of which was "successful."

Busse sobbed audibly and tried to hide a stricken face when four character witnesses for him described him as a "good boy" who had never been in trouble previously.

Lions will be roaming through Playwicki Park tomorrow, but they're of the harmless variety... members of the Levittown Lions Club will meet with their families and guests for an all day outing slated to start at 11 a.m., and last until sundown.

Firemen from Edgely Fire Company drowned a field fire which erupted about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a field behind the construction work on the James Buchanan School, Haines Road.

Mill Creek Bridge Given Go Ahead

President Judge Edward G. Biester yesterday afternoon approved construction of a 31-foot wide bridge over Mill Creek, between Snowball Gate and Juniper Hill.

The approval, necessary under state law, followed a hearing earlier in the day during which necessity for the bridge was cited.

Advertise For Bids
The county will now advertise for construction bids, with the cost estimated at $43,000.

The bridge will replace a present 16-foot span over the creek on Frosty Hollow road. Dangers of the smaller bridge were cited at the hearing, including the possibility of accidents and of children walking over it.

Five-Foot Walk
The new 31-foot span will include a five-foot wide walk. It is almost twice as wide and twice as long as the present bridge, which was described as in a "deteriorated condition" by Angus T. Johnson, Middletown township manager.

Widening of Frosty Hollow Rd. along its nine-tenths of a mile stretch will accompany work on the new bridge. Johnson told Judge Biester that the roadbed will be widened to 24 feet and that township supervisors have already allocated funds for the road project.

The bridge itself will be paid for by the county from state liquid fuel tax receipts.

Even so, Cleveland authorities remained skeptical about the Wedler confession, noting discrepancies. For instance, Wedler said he struck the woman only a few times while an autopsy report showed she had been bludgeoned about 35 times.

Wedler, who was the 25th person to "confess" the crime, told newsmen he was in a "mental fog" after he bludgeoned a Cleveland housewife and could not remember everything he did. But after reading accounts of the Sheppard murder, he said he was convinced he killed Marilyn because "there couldn't be any other answer."

Segregation Case To End On Tuesday

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—An all-white jury from the hill country of Tennessee faces an unprecedented decision here Tuesday when defense and government attorneys present final arguments in the trial of 11 segregationists charged with hindering integration of Clinton, Tenn., High School.

The jury of ten men and two women will be asked to furnish an answer to one of the thorniest questions facing the South—how far the government can go to back up the Supreme Court's integration order.

The defense contends federal agents cannot pick out faces in a crowd of integrationists and send those persons to jail and that the government has done little more than pick out the faces of the defendants in the Clinton trial.

However, the prosecution holds that a definite web of circumstantial evidence of conspiracy to interfere with the school's integration has been built around the 11 defendants.

The jury, made up of 11 persons all 40 or older, pondered the weighty case during a weekend recess that followed the end of the defense's case yesterday.

Both the defense and government cases will be spelled out to the jury Monday in summary form. That will take all day, with the squad of defense attorneys taking up four hours and the government two.

Jimmy Hoffa

Secretary-treasurer John English. Rackets Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) served notice that his New York hearings will begin soon. He declined direct comment on Hoffa's acquittal but said Hoffa's name figures in the New York phase of the committee's inquiry and he "might" be called. Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), top ranking Republican Rackets Committee member, said more directly "I anticipate that he will."

"While I have not been able to attend the Hoffa trial personally, the information which has come to me would indicate that this verdict is a miscarriage of justice," Ives said.

Spectators who heard the foreman of a federal court jury say "not guilty" after four hours and 40 minutes of deliberation, disagreed. A marshal bellowed "Quiet in the courtroom" as a burst of cheering came from the white spectators.

Hoffa thanked attorney Edward Bennett Williams and his aides. He thanked the mostly-Negro jury and said his verdict "proved once again that if you are honest and tell the truth you have nothing to fear."

Hoffa's attorney promised jestingly to send a parachute to Rackets Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy who had said he would jump off the Capitol dome if Hoffa were acquitted.

Taxes: Congressional tax experts said the $1,645,000,000 federal surplus reported for fiscal 1957 put a question mark over the possibility of a tax cut next year. The experts said tax collections were up—but so was spending.

Money: Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okl.) called on the President to tell whether he wants a "moderate recession" to solve the problems of prosperity. Kerr said the Treasury decision to refinance part of the national debt at quarter-century record high interest rates would tend to raise prices and curtail production.
